

National Families Week Webinar

1-2pm Wednesday 12th MAY

REGISTER HERE

CHALLENGING THE NORM

Jannawi Family Centre is Challenging the Norm at a panel discussion about safe families, cultural safety, and connection to family. Jannawi Family Centre works with many culturally and linguistically diverse families as well as Indigenous families.

Speakers will explore the importance of connection to culture and family as a strength and a critical safe base for all people and children to learn, grow and be strong.

This event is for anyone who wants to understand the critical role that connection to family and culture play in the safety and strength of children.

This event is FREE to attend, and we sincerely thank you for your interest.

You can support Jannawi and ID. Know Yourself by making donation when you register for the webinar.

Your donation will make a difference to vulnerable children and families and will be shared equally between the Jannawi Family Centre and ID. Know Yourself.

For more information, follow us on:

 Jannawi Family Centre

 Jannawi Family Centre

 Biljana Milosevic

Panelists include:

- Isaiah Dawe is a Butchulla and Garawa saltwater man who is a strong advocate for Indigenous children in Out of Home Care. Isaiah is the CEO and Founder of ID. Know Yourself, the first Aboriginal mentoring organisation to support Aboriginal young people in Out of Home Care in New South Wales.
- Biljana Milosevic is a bi-cultural Social Work and the Director, Jannawi Family Centre. Biljana has worked with victims of interpersonal violence for over two decades and believes strongly in resilience-based practice, hope and that culture is a strength, not a vulnerability.