

Anti-Slavery Australia's new project, Speak Now, aims to prevent forced marriage and other forms of modern slavery in the home, through education, awareness-raising and collaboration with frontline workers, communities and young people from across Australia.

We invite you to be a part of this exciting new project!

Are you a young person aged 16-23 or do you know anyone in this age group?

We are recruiting up to 12 passionate young people for our youth program!

Participants will receive training and work with us from November 2021 to June 2022 on various activities, including co-designing an online youth campaign to raise awareness about forced marriage. Most activities will be paid!

Please apply here by Monday, 1 November (we will accept applications after this date, but please apply ASAP to avoid missing out). We strongly encourage applications from people with diverse genders, sexualities, abilities, cultures, ethnicities and religions.

Do you work in one of the following areas?

- Secondary or tertiary education

- Youth work
- Health, including mental health and disability
- Family and domestic violence
- Migrant and refugee settlement
- Faith communities

If so, we would love to collaborate with you on co-developing resources for your area of work, and/or include you in our brand new podcast series on forced marriage!

Please express your interest here as soon as possible or contact us at ASAresearch@uts.edu.au.

Do you have experience or an interest in forced marriage, whether personal or professional?

If so, we invite you to share your insights by:

- Participating in our consultations on updating My Blue Sky, our national forced marriage website
- Contributing to our new podcast series on forced marriage, or
- Helping us develop resources for frontline workers and communities

To get involved, please express your interest here as soon as possible or contact us at ASAresearch@uts.edu.au.
