Home and Community Care (HACC) Services

Home and Community Care services are located in the community. The services provide support to older people, people with a disability, and people who care for them, as they live at home.

You may be able to receive HACC services:

- If you are a frail older person.
- If you are a person with a disability.
- If you care for a frail aged person or a person with a disability.
- and you live at home.

How HACC Services Can Assist

If you have a disability or are getting older, you may find that everyday tasks at home can often be difficult. HACC services can provide assistance so you can continue to live safely in your home rather than move into other accommodation, like a nursing home or hostel.

You may need services to assist you:

- If doing daily tasks, such as housework or looking after yourself, is becoming difficult.
- If you are a person with a disability and need support services to assist you to continue to live independently.
- If you care for a frail aged person or a person with a disability, and need some help in looking after them.
- If you are a frail older person or a person with a disability, you may need services to assist you after a recent illness or accident.

HACC Services Available

There are many types of services that can be provided:

- If you cannot cook for yourself, meals can be delivered to your home or you may receive them at a Day Centre. These services are called Food Services.
- A person can come to your home and assist you with housework such as cleaning, washing or shopping. This service is called Home Help.
- A person can come to your home and assist you with bathing and dressing. This is called Personal Care.
- Assistance can be provided to fix things in your home such as installing rails in your bathroom. This service is called Home Modification and Maintenance.
- A person can come to your home and assist in keeping lawns in a safe condition. This is called a Gardening or Lawn Mowing Service.
- Transport can be arranged for you to attend social activities or to go shopping, to a doctor or a hospital. This service is called Community Transport.
- A person can come to your home for a few hours and look after the person you care for, so that you can have a rest. This service is called Respite Care.
- You could also receive a rest when the person you care for attends a centre for social activities. This is called a Day Centre.
- Social activities, such as outings, are also provided, including group activities for younger people with a disability. These services are called Social Support Services.

If you are lonely and would like someone to visit you or take you shopping, this can be arranged. Home visiting is provided by volunteers and is called Volunteer Visiting. Volunteer visiting and shopping support are organised by services called Neighbour Aid or Social Support Services.

- If you need assistance from several services, an organisation can arrange this for you. This service is called Community Options.

- If you care for someone at home, you may also like to be part of a group to receive support and information. These services are called Carers' Support.
- If you care for someone who has problems with memory, memory loss, or "dementia", there are social activity and support groups they could attend while you have a rest. These services are called Dementia Services.

Health HACC Services Available

- Nurses can visit you in your home to provide general nursing care including wound management, medications, intravenous antibiotics, care of the terminally ill and personal hygiene. These services are called Community Community Nursing or Home Nursing Services.
- "Continence" Nurse advisers provide assessment and management of bladder and bowel control problems. These services are provided in clinics at Liverpool and Bankstown Hospitals. These services are called Continence Advisory Services.
- Other health services are also available in the community to assist you. These include:

Podiatry: This service can assist you if you have difficulty caring for your feet.

Speech Therapy: This service can assist you with speech problems, including voice or hearing problems. It can also assist with eating, drinking and swallowing difficulties.

Physiotherapy: This service can assist you with movement and breathing problems, (e.g. back problems, limb movement).

Occupational Therapy: This service can help you to find safe ways of doing things which have become difficult for you due to a physical injury or illness, a disability, or as you are getting older.

Social Work: This service can provide you with counselling, support and practical assistance in organising the services you need.

How to Contact a Service

- You can contact the service yourself by telephone or visiting a service.
- You can ask a friend, a family member or your doctor to call the service on your behalf.
- You could also ask a community worker to contact a service for you.

What Happens When You Contact a Service?

- When you contact a service they will ask you for some details about yourself and what help you need.
- The service will make a time to speak with or meet with you at your home. They will discuss with you what you need and how they can help you. This is called an 'assessment'.
- At the assessment information is written down and a copy is left with you.

Client Information & Referral Record (CIARR)

- Every HACC service uses the same form to write down your information. This form is a Client Information and Referral Record (CIARR).
- You can give this information to other HACC services, your Doctor or your family. This will mean you are not asked the same questions again and again.

Comprehensive Assessment

- If you have many needs a Comprehensive Assessment may benefit you. A Comprehensive Assessment will look at all your needs and the best way to help you. You can ask the service to arrange this for you.

Statistics

- In order to make HACC services work well, the funding department would like to know how services support people in their homes. This information is the Minimum Data Set. It does not include your name and address.
- HACC services must ask you if you agree to provide this information to the funding department. You can say no to this and still receive services.
- If you agree to provide this information and later change your mind, you can contact the service and tell them.

Your Information (Confidentiality)

Any information you tell a service about yourself will not be shared with other people without your permission.

How Much Will The Service Cost?

There are some costs to use most services. These costs will be explained when you first meet or talk with a service provider. Services will still be available if you are unable to pay.

What if I am Not Happy with the Service Provided?

It is important to inform the HACC service if you have any concerns with the service you receive.

Services to you will not be stopped if you complain.

If you are not happy that your complaints have been addressed you can:

- 1) Contact the Service Manager to discuss your concerns.
- 2) You can also contact:

The Community Services Division
NSW Ombudsman
Level 24, 580 George St.
Sydney NSW 2000
Phone: 9286 1000

The Community Services Commission is a free and confidential service and can assist you with complaints or concerns you have about the service you are receiving.

- 3) For complaints regarding Health Services you can also contact the Health Care Complaints Commission.

Phone: 1800 043 159

Can Someone Else Speak on My Behalf?

Yes, you can ask a family member or friend to speak on your behalf. You can also contact the following organisations that have professional staff that may be able to assist you and speak on your behalf. This is called ‘advocacy’.

Advocacy for People with a Disability

Disability Complaints Service

Phone 9319 6549, TTY phone 9318 2138

Commonwealth Carers Resource Centre

Phone 1800 242 636

You may also contact your Local State or Federal Member of Parliament.

What are My Rights?

- You have the right to complain or express your concerns about the service without fear of losing the service or suffering any other recriminations.
- You have the right to have your complaints dealt with fairly and promptly.
- You have the right to be represented by another person of your choice.
- You have the right to be informed about what services are available.
- You have the right to be assessed to receive services without discrimination.
- You have the right to receive services that are aware of your language and culture.
- You have the right to decide what services you want to receive. You may have to wait if the service cannot be provided to you immediately.
- You have the right to privacy and confidentiality. You can expect that no information will be provided to anyone else outside the service without your permission.
- You have the right to view or correct any information about yourself, held by the service.
- If your needs or circumstances change you can request a meeting with the service to discuss this.

What are My Responsibilities?

- You should act in a way that respects the rights of other consumers, service staff and volunteers.
- You need to take responsibility for any decisions you make.
- You should let the service know if you will not be home when a worker or volunteer is going to visit, or if you need to change an appointment time.
- You need to let service staff know if there are any changes in your health or circumstances, which may affect the services you need, or how the services are provided to you.
- Please feel free to ask any questions about the service you receive, and discuss any problems or issues that may affect you with the service provider.
